My dear Mr. Carroll:-

The half page advertisements which we have been using in the Tremont, Colonial and Wilbur Theatre programs are directing the attention of the Boston theatre going public to FORGET-ME-NOT RINGS, and as our appeal is a specific one, we feel that theatre programs are a good investment for us.

Your fine cooperation both in the showing of our advertisements, also the assistance in tuning the copy to theatrical terminology, is indeed appreciated by us. FORGET-ME-NOT RINGS have a distinctive class appeal and as their gift for an engagement or wedding is decidedly one of sentiment, we are convinced there is no better place to bring the sterling qualities of these exquisite creations than to the type of people who attend the theatre.

Cordially yours,

GLASER BROTHERS.

This theatre, under normal conditions, with every seat occupied, can be emptied in three minutes. Look around now, choose the nearest exit to your seat, and in case of disturbance of any kind, to avoid the danger of panic, WALK (do not run) to that exit.

TO LADY PATRONS—The established rule of the New Park Theatre requiring ladies to remove their hats, bonnets or other head-dress while witnessing the performance applies to all parts of the auditorium, including the boxes and loges. It is essential to the comfort and convenience of our patrons in general that this rule be strictly enforced. Ladies who are unwilling or unable to conform to the rule are earnestly requested to leave the theatre without delay, and to receive the price of their tickets at the Box Office.

WALLACE EDDINGER IN THE HAUNTED HOUSE

Wallace Eddinger whose brilliant work will be remembered in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "The Boomerang," "Officer 666," "Wedding Bells," and the inimitable "Captain Applejack," is the star of "The Haunted House," which begins an engagement at the New Park, Monday, January 19.

There is no more brilliant comedian of the stage today than Eddinger, and in "The Haunted House," he plays the role of the novelist-detective who solves crimes in a manner that is unlike any other detective. In this, his new play, he is at his best; and when one considers Captain Applejack, this is high praise indeed, but well merited.

The play is by that prolific author, Owen Davis, whose "The Nervous Wreck" is one of the laugh classics of the present time. In "The Haunted House," Mr. Davis has taken a good natured satirical pen and lampooned the various detective mystery plays and novels that have been seen and read in the past decade.

"The Haunted House" contains a pulse throbbing mystery, the unravelling of which grips undivided attention; excites curiosity with baffling surprises; intrigues with a love story of tenderness and trepidation and danger to the boy and girl unexpectedly caught in the meshes of nerve-tingling events that take place in the weird dwelling; and is permeated with Owen Davis's delicious humor, provoking the same brand of hilarious laughter enjoyed by those who saw his famous success, "The Nervous Wreck."

The producers are Lewis and Gordon, co-producers of "Six Cylinder Love," "Welcome Stranger," "Rain" and the aforementioned "The Nervous Wreck."

Included in Mr. Eddinger's support are the members of the original New York company; Denman Maley, Arthur Aylsworth, Isabel Withers, Frank Monroe, Mayo Methot, John Irwin, Dudley Clements, Helen Baxter and Lexlie Adams.
